I encountered a problem yesterday with the trim system. While trimming the engine down, the trim motor ran constantly and the motor trimmed all the way down. Fearing that ~ 40 minutes of running constantly may ruin the trim motor, I had to find a way to make it stop. Here's what I did to try and fix it: 1) I disconnected the helm trim switch, no change. 2) I pressed the motor cowling trim ...

A 115 hp 4 stroke might use less gas, but my bst is it will take you longer to get where you want to go than the 2 stroke. Every two stroke engine from weed eaters, chain saws to Merc Black Max has its own personality when it comes time to start em. The Evinrude 115 liked fully charged batteries and finicky about the choke.
